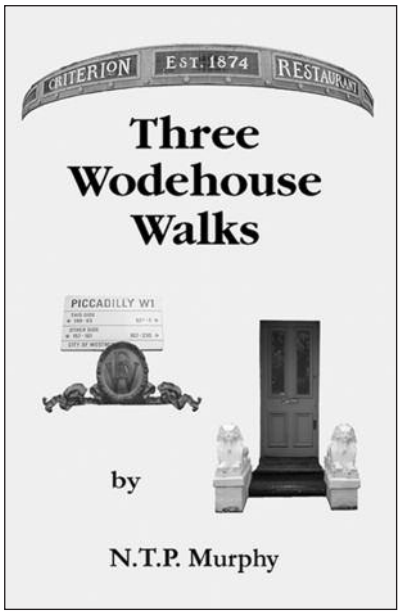
Paperback: 90 pages, 19 illustrations



For more than a quarter of a century, Norman Murphy – former Chairman and current Remembrancer of The P G Wodehouse Society (UK) – has been conducting Wodehouse Walks around London, giving pleasure to hundreds of Wodehouseans eager to know the answers to such questions as "Where did Bertie Wooster live?" and "Was there really a Junior Ganymede Club?" The original Walk, covering Bertie Wooster's West End, was soon joined by a jaunt around 'Valley Fields' (the Dulwich of Wodehouse's time), and in 2007 Norman created a new Walk through the London of Gally Threepwood and Stanley Featherstonehaugh Ukridge. All three Walks are now collected in book form, with easy-to-follow directions for getting around London's multitudinous Wodehousean sites, as well as photographs. Published with the support of The P G Wodehouse Society (UK), Three Wodehouse Walks provides fascinating stories not only about Wodehouse and the people and places he knew but also anecdotes about London. The handy size ensures it can be easily slipped into a pocket or handbag. Order it today!
